THE EDITOR'S CHAIR.

HOW THINGS LOOK FROM OUR STAND POINT.

The Opinion of The Caucasian and the Opinion of others which we Can Endorse on the Various Topics of the Day.

The two Dakotas signalize their admission to the Union by reforming the jury so far as to give two-thirds of the jury the power to decide in civil cases, but they would have done better if they had decided for a majority verdict. A jury in a civil case is nothing more than a board of arbitration, the majority of which rule everywhere except in the courthouse, and we can't see why not there.

We see that the Governor, in response to a petition, has ordered a special term of the Superior Court of Cumberland county, December 9th for the trial of criminal cases alone. This suggests to us an improvement that, it seems to us, might be made in our State Judicial proceedings. It is to have two sets of Superior Courts, one for the trial of criminal and the other for the civil cases, and that there be a distinct set of Judges to preside over each. Such a plan would greatly reduce the cost of civil suits by hastening the disposal of the same, and then too the Judges would be more proficient in their respective specialties

DIFFERENT CARS.

We most heartily endorse the following opinion expressed by the New Berne Journal:

We have no complaint to make of any particular road, indeed so far as we know there is no room for it, but we wish to endorse the suggestion, made by some of our contemporaries, that equal and separate accommodations be furnished for whites and colored people on all the roads. A first-class ticket should entitle the holder to the best accommodations furnished by the road, and in order to avoid the commingling of the two races, different cars of the same class should be on every train. One of these cars should be for the whites and the other should be exclusively for the colored people. It is not fair to force a man holding a first-class ticket to take a second class car, to say nothing of the inconvenience and discomfort that sometimes arises under the present arrangement.

It is an outrage for a corporation to force an unpleasant and disgusting specimen of social equality upon us.

CANNING FRUITS AND VEGETABLES.

The Greensboro North State says:—

Ex-Sheriff Gilmer has developed the canning industry in such a way as to attract general attention. This year he has put up three times as many cans as last year. The product of his factory this year is 15,000 cans—tomatoes, peaches, apples, and snap beans. His orders are coming in from all quarters. This shows what an opening there is in Guilford county for this industry.

There could be equally as good an opening in Sampson, and we trust that the County Alliances will win for themselves the credit of inaugurating the movement.

STATE FAIR.

The following is an outline of the programme of the N. C. State Fair which is being held at Raleigh this week.

Monday—Children's Day.

Tuesday—Procession of schools, trades display and procession, marriage of Mr. Bateman and lady in costumes made of cotton bagging manufactured in North Carolina, the attendants being attired in the same material. The bride and groom will be the recipients of many presents from all over the State.

Wednesday—Re-union of Confederate veterans, Farmers' State Institute, visit of children and teachers of the Oxford Orphan Asylum.

Thursday, big day and general re-union of North Carolinians.

Friday. Teachers' Day. Regular meetings of the Agricultural Society every evening.

The exhibit is very creditable to the State, and the managers deserve much credit for getting it out. The programme is admirably arranged for the amusement and instruction of the visitors.

The President's English is a Benny diction.—New Berne Journal.

CUMBERLAND NEWS.

ANOTHER FIRE-BONDSMEN OF SHERIFF MCQUEEN SUED-SPECIAL TERM OF COURT.

Suddent Death of Capt. Daingerfield.

[Reg. Cor. CAUCASIAN.]
FAYETTEVILLE, N. C., Oct. 14th, 1889.

The roof of the house of Mrs. H. C. Dodd caught fire Wednesday morning. The alarm was promptly responded to and in ten minutes the fire was out. While the house was on the dry rack at Eccles Bridge on Wednesday some scoundrel cut about six hundred feet. Chief of Fire Department J. D. McNeill has offered a reward of $50 for information as to the perpetrator, but the rascal has not been found out.

Capt. J. E. P. Daingerfield died Thursday afternoon while hunting in company with Mr. John C. Haigh, he was hunting quail on the farm of Hon. Geo. M. Rose, three miles south of the city. They became separated and Mr. Haigh looking for him to return home, found him dead with his gun across his breast. He died of heart disease, and was in his 73rd year of age. The funeral services were held from St Johns church Saturday morning.

One hundred and twenty convicts passed through here Thursday on their way to work on the C. F. & Y. V. R'y. They are laying track [illegible] in Sampson county.

The middle pier for the railroad bridge across the Cape Fear is well under way. In one week about forty feet of it has been laid. It will be eighty feet high. The first span of the long bridge is completed. The work is so far advanced that the water will not delay it. President Gray says the road will be completed from here to Wilmington by January 1st.

The Fayetteville Semi-Weekly Observer appeared last week. It is full of news and advertisements. Editors Whitehead & Myrover know how to edit a paper and this city is proud of the Observer.

Capt. J. B. Smith has been appointed chief marshal of the Cumberland County Fair, which comes off during centennial week, November 20th, 21st and 22nd.

Nearly every company of the State Guard has accepted invitations to come to the centennial. The Bennettsville (S. C.) Rifles have also accepted. The centennial committees offer the following military and band prizes: 1st military prize $200,-00; 2nd, $100,00; 3rd, $50,00. 1st band prize, $75,00; 2nd, $50,00; 3rd, $25,00. I hope the Sampson Light Infantry will put on their "war paint" and come prepared to carry off some of the honors.

Arrangements are being made for a $1000,00 purse for racing at the Fair. The citizens will contribute $500,00 and the agricultural association $500,00. Several noted racers from Kentucky are to be here, with thoroughbreds. It would be gratifying to see some of our North Carolina stock win the prizes.

Evangelist Fife spent a few days at home here last week. His hard work has reduced his avoirdupois, but he is well and happy in the great work he is doing. He has engagements at New Bern, Raleigh, Reidsville and other North Carolina cities, and Hot Springs, Ark.

Mr. W. D. Gaster, a high ranking Odd Fellow of this city, organized a new Lodge at Jonesboro on the 8th inst. On the 23rd inst Lodges are to be organized at Lumber Bridge and Red Springs, and instituted by Cross Creek Lodge No. 4, of this city. Mr. W. D. Gaster is one of the most zealous Odd Fellows in America.

A meeting of the stockholders and Directors of the Fayetteville and Albermarle Railroad is called to meet here next Saturday.

The Yadkin Valley railroad has purchased the old Cape Fear Bank lot on Gillespie street and will erect a mammoth storage and transfer warehouse thereon. The immense business at this point necessitates its building.

The magistrates met last week, but deferred action on the Courthouse question until the first Monday in November.

The County Commissioners, last week, granted a petition to recommend the holding of a special term of the Superior Court. The term will commense the the first or second week in December. As the dockets are so crowded it is impossible to dispense justice as rapidly as the citizens have a right to demand.

Twenty three prisoners are languishing in the jail. As only three days of the November term can be devoted to the trial of criminal cases not one half will be tried before January. A burglary and burning cases will take up the three days.

Col. A. H. Seftwich, one of the company which recently purchased the gas and electric light plants is here. A building for the electric light dynamo is being put up and the gas works, and an engine put in. The Mayor of Baltimore is, we learn, a member of the syndicate.

The county commissioners failed to make a satisfactory settlement with the bondsmen of the late Sheriff Neil McQueen, and last week suit was commenced against them for $11,-55,00.

Sheriff Crowell, of Wilson, was here Friday after a prisoner to carry back to Wilson. Sheriff Currie of Moore county was also here after a violator of the law.

Quite a large crowd of people are going from here to the State Fair this week, your correspondent among them. They have the choice of two routes, by Sanford and Selma by either of which they will reach Raleigh in two hours and a half, leaving here at 8 a. m.

The Y. M. C. A. gymnasium is nearing completion, the contractor says. Secretary Hawley took a special course in gymnastics and will be the instructor.

The cotton receipts are behind, the figures at the same time last year. The farmers are holding it, as the National Alliance recommended. The same prices are paid here as on the Wilmington market.

Mr. R. Frank Peterson is erecting an art studio on Hay street.

Prof. Antonio Belleza, of Washington, D. C. is here with his excellent band of music and opens a dancing school in William's Hall this afternoon for ladies and at night for gentlemen

A large crop of mast is said to be a sign of a hard winter. The farmers say there is a very heavy mast this season. So prepare for a cold winter. I do not know what the goose says, nor what Wiggins, weather prophet has to say about it but the mast sign is the experience of the ages.

EASTERN ASSOCIATION.

[Special to Caucasian.]

The fifty-four churches in this Association, with a large representation, was in session last week at Concord church, near Magnolia. The introductory sermon was preached by Rev. F. R. Underwood of Glenwood, Johnston county. The annual missionary sermon was preached by Dr. T. H. Pritchard, of Wilmington.

This Association includes the Eastern and Southern part of Sampson, all of Duplin, Pender and New Hanover counties and a portion of Onslow and Bladen.

Among the prominent visitors from beyond the limits of the Association were Rev. C. Durham, Corresponding Secretary Baptist State Convention; J. H. Mills, Superintendent Baptist Orphanage; Rev. J. A. Speight, Associate Editor of Biblical Recorder; Rev. Dr. Jno. Mitchell, representing Ministerial Education; Rev. J. S. Dill, of Goldsboro, representing Home Missions.

Usual committees were appointed to report on the subjects for discussion, which subjects were discussed ably and entertainingly throughout.

The officers of the Association elected for the ensuing year are as follows:

Moderator, Rev. J. L. Stewart;
Secretary, Rev. J. L. Britt;
Treasurer, S. M. Carleton.

$500 in cash contributions, from the various churches were sent in to the Association, which was forwarded to the various Boards at Raleigh for the support of Missions. This represents the amount sent at one time, while about $1,000 has been sent during the year for the various objects, while the total amount raised by this Association for all purposes, including pastor's salaries, etc., for the year 1889 amounts to the sum of about $13,000.

Too much cannot be said in commendation of the hospitable entertainment of the Association by the people of Concord.

The next session will be held at Riley's Creek, Pender county, Tuesday, after the 1st Sunday in October, 1890.

A Chapter of Coincidence.

A LARGE FORTUNE WAVERING IN THE BALANCE.

THE MISSING HEIR.

THE CAUCASIAN'S ORIGINAL STORY
BY JULIAN HAWTHORNE.

A succession of inexplicable events, following closely one upon another, will go far to make a man distrust his sanity, and to distrust your own sanity is no better than to be insane. I once read a story in which a number of persons conspired to put up a joke on another. The latter was on his way to market, with a goose under his arm. The conspirators, one after another, met him, and severally remarked on the fine pig he was carrying. The poor goose-man held out that the pig-seers were crazy, for the first two or three times. But at the fourth he wavered, the fifth bewildered him, the sixth terrified him, and at the seventh shook his reason forsook her throne, and nothing afterwards could convince him that he was not a raving maniac.

Now, I always thought that this man must originally have possessed an exceptionally strong intelligence. Any ordinary person—myself, for example—would have succumbed at the third miracle. This was borne in upon me strongly on the morning of the third of July, a year ago, as I was on my way to my office down-town. I lived, at that time, on East Thirty-sixth street, between Third and Lexington avenues. My office (I am a lawyer) is in Trinity Building, below the City Hall Park. To get exercise, I am in the habit of starting early and walking the distance. Last summer a matter of business kept me in town all through July, and my walk became the substitute for my vacation. But on this third of July (the fourth being a holiday) I was going down just to file away a few documents, and then run over to Long Branch for thirty-six hours of sea air. As I approached the corner of Thirty-sixth street and Lexington avenue, I met an Italian chestnut vender, carrying on his head a basket of chestnuts. As he passed me, one of the chestnuts rolled out of the basket, and, falling, struck the toe of my right boot, and bounded off into the gutter. Well, there was nothing very extraordinary in that. But mark what followed. I continued on my way, turned down Lexington avenue, crossed it, and was on the point of turning the corner of East Thirty-fifth street, when I met an Italian chestnut vender with a basket of chestnuts on his head. As he passed me, one of the chestnuts rolled out of the basket, and, falling, struck the toe of my right boot, and bounded into the gutter!

It is not too much to say that I never in my life was more disagreeably startled than by this apparently trifling occurrence. "If that happens a third time," said I to myself, "I am a madman, that's all!" In a sort of panic, I ran along the middle of the streets to Park avenue, then to Thirty-fourth street, and so to Fourth avenue, where I bounced into the first horse-car that came along. I was not likely to meet any more Italian chestnut venders carrying baskets of chestnuts on their heads, there.

I tried to shake off the painful impression on my mind by trying to fix my attention on the case that I was conducting. It was a will case, involving a large property. When I say a will case, I mean that Ambrose Asten had left no will. His effects, therefore, went to the next of kin. The problem was to find the latter. He was known to have had a brother, but this brother had not been heard of in twenty years. At that time (1868) he was a convict in Australia. Probably he was dead now. The next claimant was the child of a married sister of Asten's. This sister was known to have married a second time, and to have died a year thereafter. The name of her second husband was not known, and he had disappeared with the child. Such was the situation. I had been at work on the puzzle for six months, and had made but little headway. As Mr. Asten's lawyer, I knew that he had entertained an idea of leaving his fortune to the Manhatten Anti-Fat Hospital, of which he was one of the patrons. But he had died suddenly, without effecting his purpose. The hospital people, however, were trying to get the money; and the late Mr. Asten's partner in the soap business, a very honest old gentleman, who had once been in love with Asten's sister, was opposing them, and had employed me to hunt up the missing heir.

OUR YOUNG FOLKS.

Something Interesting to Young Readers of The Caucasian.

[Prepared each week by W. A. Johnson, to whom all communications intended for this column should be addressed.]

A CHILD'S TIME-TABLE.

Sixty Seconds in a Minute;
Here's your task so now begin it.

Sixty Minutes in an hour;
Do your work with all your power.

Twelve good Hours in every Day;
Time for work and time for play.

Twenty-four for Day and Night;
Some for darkness, some for light.

Every week of Days has Seven;
All are good, since all from Heaven.

Yet the First, the Day of Rest,
Ever must we count the best.

Lunar Months of Weeks have Four;
Calendar, a few days more.

Twelve new Months in every Year;
Each in turn is coming near.

Winter, Summer, Autumn, Spring,
All their pleasant changes ring.

Century!—a Hundred Years;
Leave with Heaven its hopes and fears.

Some Questions for Our Young Friends to Answer.

1. Who lived to be older than his father, yet died before his father?

2. What are the highest water falls in the world and where are they?

3. In what State are the largest trees found?

4. How many States and Territories in the United States?

5. When was Sampson county formed and in honor of whom was it called?

6. What is the shortest and what the longest day in the year?

A Norwich school ma'am put the word "Trust" in a spelling lesson the other day. Trust used to be a simple word meaning confidence—a word without guile and within the grasp of the youngest pupil. The effect of the times upon the word became painfully apparent the moment the definition was called for.

"Define Trust," commanded the teacher.

The little fellow at the head of the class, who evidently read the paper, replied, "Trust is a big snake."

"Where did you learn that?" asked the teacher.

"In our newspaper," replied the boy. "It said a Trust is an anaconda!"

"That wasn't what I saw in my paper," spoke up a clever pupil, for it said a Trust was like a devil of a fish!"

"It's a monster," said the third boy.

"Where on earth did you get that idea?" asked the astonished teacher.

"Outen the papers," replied number three.

"I guess the papers dunno," remarked the fourth, "for mine said it was an octerpus!"

CLINTON, N. C., - OCT. 17, 1889.

The Fayetteville Observer says it is not a try-weekly.

Several cases of yellow fever are reported at Key West, Fla., but there is said to be no fear of the disease spreading.

The President has appointed Charles A. Cook, to be Attorney of the United States for the Eastern District of North Carolina.

"The Fayetteville Semi-Weekly Observer" has made its appearance. It is creditable alike to the town and the enterprise of the live editors, Messrs Whitehead & Myrover. The Observer is published every Tuesday and Friday.

The recent session of the Synod of the Presbyterian Church in Charlotte, was one of the most interesting and largely attended in many years. Among other important measures acted upon was the division of Orange Presbytery. The New Presbytery is to be called Albermarle, and will contain 22 churches and 12 ministers.

Connecticut has voted against the prohibition amendment. It included cider and the farmers who wanted beer done away with could not give up their cider. The New York World remarks that the apple which was the cause of the first disturbance in the domain of man has not yet ceased to be a cause of trouble.

The City of Indianapolis, the home of President Harrison, has elected a Democratic Mayor and Board of Aldermen. It would seem from this that the Hoosiers do not endorse the doings of Mr. Harrison's party and desire a change. It is the first time in 15 years that Indianapolis has elected a democratic and majority of the aldermen.

Negro colonization is now much discussed in our neighboring Republic, Mexico. It is proposed that the government give each head of a family a plot of ten yactares of land, of which he shall have entire possession without the right to sell it; and that each colonist be furnished agricultural implements and all the coffee trees necessary for the plantation, besides the usual number of bananna and tobacco plants.

Inventive genius is being manifested among our North Carolina preachers to a somewhat remarkable extent: Some time ago the Rev. Baylus Cade, of Raleigh, patented the process for telegraphing from moving trains, and now Rev. C. L. Arnold of Wilmington comes to the front with a Drawing Room Car that promises to be a great success. We congratulate the inventors on their successes. May they receive fit rewards for their work in both the fields in which they labor.

Talmage's great Brooklyn Tabernacle is in ashes. The fire alarm was sounded last Sunday morning at 2:15. The famous preacher was soon on the scene, but was told that the building was doomed. He stood and watched the magnificent edifice, which has been his pride, vanish in flames and then returned sorrowfully home. The loss is at least $150,000. The organ of the tabernacle was said to be the finest in America, and we can testify that the music we heard there last spring was superior to anything we have ever heard.

The managers of the State Fair are shrewd advertisers In order to attract the attention of the curious it was advertised that farmer Bateman would marry in a suit of cotton bagging, his bride costumed in the same material; that a fight on the Sullivan—Kilrain style would take place between two pugilists clothed in cotton and jute bagging respectively, cotton versus jute; that Rhoda Lowrie, Queen of Scuffletown, would be present; that Jumbo, the fat man weighing 749 pounds, and a baby 10 months old weighing 74 pounds would be there too. The great advertisers of John Robinson's circus have been eclipsed at last.

WOMAN'S SPHERE.

The Table.

It has been said, "there are but a few things on which health and happiness depend more than on the manner in which food is cooked."

Judgment in Cookery.

If cookery were only an exact science, then weights, measures, temperatures and exact time could always be given and not so much left to the judgment of the cook. Unfortunately few housekeepers have real good judgment and inventiveness, and the latter is especially necessary where economy is important. Dainty cooking, not such as tempt men to gluttory, is what our housewives should study. A good table does not depend upon the amount of money spent but the manner in which it is spent. Let every scrap yield all the nourishment in its power. Let every mistress turn her attention to scientific cooking for three months and with her intelligence, she will serve better meals than two-thirds of the so-called cooks.

Try One of These.

COFFEE CAKE.—One egg, one cup of brown sugar, one cup of molasses, one cup of butter, one cup of strong cold coffee, one pound of raisins, one tablespoonful of cloves, one tablespoonful of cinnamon, one grated nutmeg and one heaping teaspoonful of soda. Put in the molasses four or five cups of flour: mix very stiff and bake in a moderate oven for an hour. Cider can be substituted for coffee.

MERINGUED APPLES.—Peel, quarter and core a dozen apples. Put them on a stove in a double boiler, with a gill of water, half a cup of sugar and the grated peel of a lemon. Cook until soft, stirring often. When the mixture is reduced to two thirds the original quantity, turn it in to a pudding dish and set aside. Then beat the whites of three eggs very light, with a quarter of a cup of powdered sugar; spread this on the apples and brown lightly in quick oven. Eat cold with cream.

Dress.

It is every woman's duty, first to herself, second to her family, and third to society to appear neat, attractive and to an advantage in every way possible.

To Keep a Trim Figure.

Women who wish to preserve the slimness and contour of their figure must begin by learning to stand well. That is explained to mean the throwing forward and upward the chest, the flattening of the back, with the shoulder blades held in their proper places and the definite curving in of the small of the back, thus throwing the whole weight of the body upon the hips. No other women hold themselves so well as the aristocratic English women. Much of their beauty lies in their proud carriage, the delicate erectness of their figures and the fine poise of their heads. The same aristocratic carriage is within the reach of any American girl who takes the pains to have it. It is only a question of a few years of constant vigilance, never relaxing her watchfulness over herself and, sitting or standing, always preserving her erectness and poise, the result being that at the end of time it has become second nature to her and she never afterwards loses it. This in a great measure preserves the figure, because it keeps the muscles firm and well strung and prevents the sinking down of the flesh around the waist and hips, so common in women over thirty and which it is perfectly easy to escape. Another thing to avoid is a bad habit of going up-stairs, which most women do, bent forward with the chest contracted, which, as well as being an indolent, slouchy manner of walking, is injurious to the heart and lungs.

Fashion Notes.

A sleeve of different goods is fashionable for both street and home costumes, especially when velvet is used.

Jackets are longer this season, and when a dressy effect is desired, full sleeves are used, which set up high above the shoulders and gathered in a deep cuff at the wrist.

"Faced" cloths and serges in black and the new shades of brown, green, blue and purple tints are used for "tailor" costumes.

Autumn Street Costume.

An exceedingly stylish combination of fancy-striped gray woolen and black velvet is illustrated in this costume, for which the "Etilla" qasque and drapery patterns are employed. The drapery, which is mounted on a plain gored foundation-skirt, is arranged in graceful folds across the front and in kilt-plaits at the back, and has a velvet panel at each side. The jacket-basque, which is a graceful compromise between a jacket and a basque, displays a double-breasted vest front with long revers, and the lower part forms square tabs all around. The basque is of the woolen goods, and the vest, collar and cuffs, of velvet. The chemisette and standing collar are covered with a heavy embroidery in silver braid. The hat is of black velvet trimmed with a wreath of ostrich feathers and upright loops of velvet ribbon.

Plush and velvet toques and turbans, with wings for garniture, set in mercury style or at the back and projecting forward are much affected this season.

Black is still the rage in hats, though very bright colors are used in trimmings.

The Right Move.

The discussion of important technical subjects in the theory and practice of scientific agriculture by experts, as a part of the programme of agricultural fairs, will give dignity and value to the exhibition. It is noticeable that such a movement is beginning, and it is to be hoped will be generally adopted. It will be combination of a holiday and an "agricultural institute;" o scientific lectures or practical lectures, with aboudant illustraion on exhibition It will certainly do much to revive the in erest of intelligent and scientific farmers in these annual shows. Polit cal oratory on such occasions has undoubtedly out ived its usefulness, if any it had to outlive. This movement means that it is becoming recognized slowly that agriculture is a science and a profession, and that its problems can only be elucidated by a person who has a scientific and professional grasp of them. There never et was a day's work intelligently and efficiently done on any farm which did not involve the application to practical results of numerous and important scientific principles. Does the State medical society meet to hear speeches by stump orators, or discussions of professional subjects by medical experts? There is a time for all things; a time for the stump orator to hold forth, and a time for him to refrain from holding forth. There is a time when the agricultural expert may be herd with appropriateness and advantage, and that time is as often as agriculturists hold an assemble for recreating and improvement combined. Every dog show, for the matter of that, has expert judges, sometimes fetched from England, and always a consulting vete inary practitioner. Agricultural fairs are also progressing. Festina Lente; they make haste slowly.

A HARD ONE.

A young friend of ours was passing by the Wilson Collegiate Institute the other day and met a young maiden of that successful institution of learning who addressed him thusly: "What sir, is more profoundly deferential or respectfully insinuating than the perpetual vibration of the caudal appendage of canine anatomy when you are trying to soothe and allay gastronomical inclinations in the vicinage of his presence?" Our polite and gallant young friend said "yes, mam," and then hurried over to ask us what she meant.—Wilson Mirror.

LOCALS.

—Alliance Trade Cards for sale at THE CAUCASIAN Office, at 25 cents per hundred.

—If ten of our subscribers will bring wood to us, we will credit their subscription with its value.

—See the special premiums for exhibits at the Sampson fair by Wilmington business men in this issue.

—The County Business Agent is prepared to furnish the Sub-Alliances with Trade Cards, at 25 cents per hundred.

—We publish this week the first instalment of our original story, "A Chapter of Coincidence" by Julian Hawthorn.

—Clinton continues to pay the highest market price for cotton and her merchants sell goods as cheap as they can be bought anywhere.

—Our young folks have organized a "Reading Club." The first meeting will be held at the residence of Dr. A. M. Lee on tomorrow night.

—The members of the Executive Committee of the Sumpson Fair are requested to meet in Clinton, in the President's office, on Saturday, the 19th inst.

—Owing to the serious illness of our Duplin correspondent we are without the Duplin news this week. We hope to furnish it regularly hereafter.

—The supper given by the young ladies cooking club at Mr. Richard Holmes last week was simply elegant. The most fastidious epicure could not have wished for a daintier quality nor a gourmand for a greater abundance of rich and costly viands.

—The Knights of Honor meet Friday night at 8 o'clock. A speaker has been invited to lecture before the lodge at that time on the principles and workings of the order, after which the members will repair to banquet, which will be in readiness to be served at the Clinton Hotel, when the charitable, and social parts of human nature will be attuned to harmony and benevolence by a feast worthy of the knights of old.

—For the people of this section, Clinton is to-day the best cotton market in the world. The firm of Williams & Murchison in a letter to Mr. McQueen yesterday said "Clinton is the only cotton market in the world where the prices have not declined in the last three days." Cotton is worth only 10 1-16 in Wilmington, it is worth 10c here. Therefore a 500 lb bale would bring only 31 cents more there than here. While the expense on a bale from here to Wilmington, including freight, weighing, drayage and commissions, is $1.82, which makes a net profit to the seller here of $1.51.

—Mr. T. B. Ashford, of Kinston, was in town last week and showed us a sample of the Fruit and Vegetable Crate which he has recently invented. It is quite a unique arrangement and is a great improvement over the old crate. Among other advantages which Mr. Ashford tells us it has over the ordinary crate, is that his crate costs 35 cents in Kinston, in barrel sizes, and that the freight on a crate from that point to New York is 55 cents. The old crates in half barrel sizes cost 10 cents each and the freight is 42 cents to New York on each. The total on a barrel of fruit or vegetables on the old crate from Kinston to New York is $1.04, and on the Ashford crate 90 cents, a saving of 14 cents a barrel by using the latter.

There was a very enjoyable public debate in the Philotechnic Society Hall at Salem High School last Friday night. Declamations were rendered by two young men and the discussion of the query, "Was the South justifiable in seceding from the Union," was indulged in by six representatives of the society. Both sides were well handled by the young men and the audience was pleasantly entertained by them for more than an hour. The thanks of all present are due Misses Cherry and Williams for excellent music, both vocal and instrumental, which interspersed the exercises.

Judge E. T. Boykin.

We are pleased to see the following deserved compliment paid our townsman, one of the youngest and ablest men on the bench, by the Tarboro Southerner:

"His Honor, Judge Boykin, came through the country this morning from Rocky Mount and promptly opened his court at 10:30.

"This is the first visit of Judge Boykin to Tarboro. He is a tall, well-formed, fine looking man with a large well-formed head, covered with brown hair, and wears a brown well-trimmed mustache. He comes with a fine reputation as a lawyer and gentleman. Thus far his reputation is well sustained. He displays more amiability, courtesy and patience than some of the judges have shown here. * * * * *

"The charge was thorough and gracefully delivered, and a new departure, in many respects, from the old beaten rut. His remarks upon the sanctity of marriage, was on a high moral plain, presented in a new, strong calcium light. No better sermon has ever been preached against adultery."

COURT CLOSES.

Important Cases.

The October term of Sampson Superior Closed late Saturday evening. This was to have been a two week's term, but his Honor Judge Bynum expedited business so rapidly that every case ready for trial was finished the first week. The docket is now smaller than it has been for ten years, at least twenty-five cases having been finally disposed of during this term. The following are the most important:

Warren vs. Williams, fraud suit. Decided in favor of plaintiff, Warren.

W. F. Faison, et al., vs, F. L. Faison, administrator, W. A. Faison, et al. Exceptions to a homestead return, Verdict for $50.00 surplus.

State vs. Philips, assault and battery, six months in jail power of Commissioners to hire out after 30 days.

State vs. J. W. Hawley, larceny. Two years in jail.

State vs. Calvin Boyette, assault and battery. Judgement suspended upon payment of cost. The court required Boyette to pay the negro's doctor bill and $100 damages.

State vs. John E. Lewis, embezzlement. Verdict set aside and case nol prosed.

State vs. Howard Smith, larceny. Verdict guilty. The boy, under order of court, was bound out.

The judge complimented the county, saying that it was the first from which he had failed to send a jail bird to the penitentiary.

The foreman of the Grand Jury, W. U. Newkirk, in his report on the condition of the county farm said:

"We think that our county has reason to be proud of this institution. The poor are provided with good food and raiment. The several houses are clean and comfortable and there is abundance of good wholesome fruit all around the premises during the summer months."

Further in his report he said:

"We find that there is a market house on the county property, (on the Courthouse Squ are) which is in the hands of private parties. We recommend that the County Commissioners take the same in charge and either collect the rents or remove the same, as they may think best, and that it be done without delay."

The foreman also recommended that the Judge's suggestions with reference to making the court-room comfortable, be put into effect. But we beg to differ with the foreman when he says that "our jail is in a fine and safe condition." on the other hand we think it both unsafe and discreditable to the county. Then, besides, it should be moved from its present site.

Tribute of Respect.

At a meeting of Hiram Lodge No. 98, A. F. & A. M., the following report was adopted:

WHEREAS, The infinitely wise and merciful Creator, the supreme ruler of the Universe, to whose divine behest we humbly submit; has seen fit to remove by death, from all earthly scenes and associations, our brother, Sherod Barksdale; and, whereas, it is meet, right and proper that we give expression to the feelings this dispensation of Providence has inspired, therefore,

Resolved, that by the death of brother Barksdale we are again reminded of the uncertainty of life and admonished to keep the conduct of our every day lives adjusted by the square, plumb and level.

Resolved 2nd, That, as a memorial of the melancholly event, a page of the minutes be designated, which shall bear the inscription of his name and the date of his decease.

Resolved 3rd, That in the death of our member the wife has lost an affectionate husband and his children a kind father, that we offer them our sympathy, condolence and assistance in their bereavement and distress.

Resolved 4th, That a copy of these resolutions be sent to the family of the deceased.

Respectfully submitted in Lodge,

SAM JONES IN DURHAM.

The Meetings Closed.

(Special to THE CAUCASIAN.)

DURHAM, N. C., Oct. 13th, 1889.

MR. EDITOR: Durham is full, crowded to the utmost with visitors to the Sam Jones meetings. Six thousand people present at each service. Excursion trains coming in daily from Raleigh, Greensboro, Oxford and other places. Hotels are full and many sleep in stores and camp out. Much interest is manifested, conversions are numerous and bar-keepers tremble under his powerful logic and eloquence.

Rev. Mr. Culpeper, of Georgia, is assisting him. He is much on Jones' style, and a fine preacher.

The music is the best ever given in the State. Mr. Excell travels with Jones and is as much a factor in the meeting as is Jones himself. Excell's solos are extra fine. The meetings close to-night.

Crowds cannot be seated to-day. Parrish's warehouse is used as the tabernacle.

Fifty boys and professors are here from Wake Forest College to hear Jones. About thirty from the University and some from Trinity.

Jones leaves for Lynchburg tomorrow to hold another series of meetings. It will pay anyone to hear him.

We are well impressed with Durham. Its people are very hospitable. J. E. F. & J. A. O., JR.

Mercurial Poison.

Mercury is frequently injudiciously used by quack doctors in cases of malaria and blood poison. Its after effect is worse than the original disease. B. B. B. (Botanic Blood Balm) contains no mercury, but will eliminate mercurial poison from the system. Write to Blood Balm Co., Atlanta, Ga., for book of convincing proof of its curative virtue.

A. F. Britton, Jackson, Tenn., "I caught malaria in Louisiana, and when the fever at last broke, my system was saturated with poison, and I had sores in my mouth and knots on my tongue. I got two bottles B. B. B., which healed my tongue and mouth and made a new man of me."

Wm. Richmond, Atlanta, Ga., writes: "My wife could hardly see. Doctors called it syphilitic iritis. Her eyes were in a dreadful condition. Her appetite failed. She had pain in her joints and bones. Her kidneys were deranged also, and no one thought she could be cured. Dr. Gillam recommended B. B. B., which she used until her health was entirely restored."

K. P. B. Jones, Atlanta, Ga., writes: "I was troubled with copper colored eruptions, loss of appetite, pain in back, aching joints, debility, emaciation, loss of hair, sore throat, and great nervousness. B. B. B. put my system in fine condition.

THE JUG WAS A SNAKE TRAP.

A Five Foot Black Snake Which Was Caught in a Curious Manner.

One sultry afternoon in August, on a hunt, with horse and buggy, for prehistoric Indian relics, I came to a dilapidated fence that inclosed a cabin and truck patch at the foot of the bluffs east of the ancient hamlet of Prairie du Pont, below the Falling Springs.

My horse and myself were both thirsty and tired. I opened the rickety gate and commenced an inspection of the place, when I saw a middle aged negro man coming up from the far corner of the garden.

On making my wants known he led the way to a fine large spring, bubbling up from the edge of the rocks, and handed me a gourd full of its clear, cold water. While satisfying my thirst my courteous host dipped up a large tin pailful of water and carried it out to my horse, who no doubt appreciated the refreshing kindness fully as much as I did.

The thirst of man and beast satiated, the sable gentleman politely asked me to take a seat on a bench in the shade of his splendid maples and rest awhile, remarking, as if by way of apology for not offering more elaborate hospitality, that his folks were gone to a neighbor's whose wife was very sick, and they would probably not return until night, if then.

The cabin, built of logs, was about fourteen feet square and at one end had an annex in the shape of a shed room without floor, constructed of rough plank. This room, near which I sat, I rightly inferred, from the rusty stovepipe that protruded above the clapboard roof, served the purpose of kitchen, pantry and dining room.

We had been talking some little time when we were suddenly startled by a crashing noise in the vacant kitchen, as though caused by the falling and breaking of glass or crockery. My host rushed to the door and threw it open, and I was just at his heels, but with a glance in the hovel he started back so precipitately that I had to dodge quickly to escape the consequences of the collision.

Rallying immediately we advanced to the door, and saw a great black snake, five feet in length, writhing and struggling among fragments of shattered queensware, as though making a desperate attempt to free itself from some sort of trap that held it and impeded its locomotion.

The well aimed stroke of a hoe cut the unwelcome intruder in two about the middle, and then our autopsy revealed how strangely the thieving reptile had snared himself.

Along one side of the room, in a space four feet wide, were four or five rude, narrow shelves that fitted the office of a cupboard, and on which were ranged the family plates, dishes, etc.

About midway of some of these shelves had stood a small earthenware jug, flanked on either side by a few specimens of the ceramic art.

The matron of the establishment, before leaving home that morning, had gathered the fresh eggs from the different nests about the poultry yard; and, in depositing them at random where space was found on the shelves, she had placed a single egg on one side of the jug before mentioned and several others on the other side of it.

The serpent, in exploring the deserted apartment in quest of food, had first encountered the single egg and swallowed it; in order then to get at the others he crawled through the handle of the jug, which proved rather a narrow passage, and swallowed another egg.

To more conveniently swallow his repast he must have attempted to change his position; but, with his body through the jug handle, with one egg incased in front and one behind it, making bulges in his body that were much too large to pass so small an orifice, he could neither back out nor go through, but was held fast.

The result of his effort was to push the jug off the shelf, which, in falling, carried the snake and two or three old dishes with it. The fall to the dirt floor smashed the dishes, but the jug remained intact and firmly held its prisoner.—Cor. St. Louis Republic.

CHAPEL HILL NOTES.

(Special Cor. Caucasian.)

CHAPEL HILL, N. C., October 16, 1889.

Dr. Battle delivered the address at the Concord Fair on the 3d instant.

There are about 178 students now rolled, and nearly all seem impressed with the fact that they are enjoying opportunities offered to few.

Dr. Wm. J. Martin, of Davidson College, at the request of the University Faculty, will at some future day deliver at Chapel Hill a memorial address on the late Charles Phillips.

Mr. C. A. Rankin, of Fayetteville has been elected Washington Birthday Orator. He was previously a student of Davidson College, but entered the junior class here last year, and will graduate with the class of '90.

A University foot ball team has been organized, with Mr. W. F. Shaffer as president and De Bernie Whitaker, secretary. The players have been appointed and assigned to their positions, so they are now practicing and will be ready by the time cool weather begins to enter the contest for the State championship.

The committee appointed by Le Di Society to appear before the trustees in regard to changing Saturday's recitations, so that two meetings of the Society might be held weekly, as formerly, secured the change and now the society work is decidedly improved.

Prof. Geo. T. Winston delivered a memorial address on the late Prof. R. H. Graves in Gerrard Hall on Monday, the 14th, that being substituted by the Faculty for Saturday, October the 12th, which is properly "University day," the anniversary of the laying of the corner stone of the "Old East," the first building erected.

The management of the Library has been entirely changed so that instead of four Librarians a year, we now have only one, who devotes his time entirely to this work. The Library is open five hours daily instead of two, which seems to give entire satisfaction. This Library is the pride of those in the State who love literature and science, and we hope to see it continue to grow, adding from $500 to $1,000 worth of new books and periodicals annually, until it becomes one of the great treasures of North Carolina.

SALIS.

Cancer of the Nose.

"My father had a cancer and my husband died of cancer. In 1875 a lump appeared on my nose, and from its appearance and rapid growth, I became alarmed with the idea that I, too, had cancer. I consulted my physician about it, and he gave me an ointment to put on it, when this did not relieve me, he then burnt it out, but the place would not heal. It gradually grew longer and worse, and I had fully made my mind up that I must also die of cancer. Friends prevailed on me to try Swift's Specific (S. S. S.) This I finally consented to do. After taking a few bottles I was entirely cured. Swift's Specific (S. S. S.) cured me when the doctors and all other medicines failed."

MRS. M. T. MABEN,
Woodbury, Hall county, Texas.

Four Years on Crutches.

For fifteen years I was afflicted with rheumatism, four years of which I was compelled to go on crutches. Words are inadequate to express the suffering I endured during that time. During these fifteen years of existence (it was not living), I tried every known remedy without receiving any benefit. I finally began on Swift's Specific (S. S. S.), which from the first gave me relief, and to-day I am enjoying the best of health, and am a well man. I candidly believe that S. S. S. is the best blood purifier on the market to-day.

NEW BARBER SHOP

When you wish an easy shave,
As good as barber ever gave,
Just call on me at my saloon
At morning, eve or noon;
I cut and dress the hair with grace,
To suit the contour of the face.
My room is neat and towels clean,
Scissors sharp and razors keen,
And everything I think you'll find;
To suit the face and please the mind,
And all my art and skill can do
If you just call, I'll do for you.

PAUL SHERARD,
The Clinton Barber.
